Home Rule Marching On—Behring Sea—Camperdown's Injuries.

LONDON, July 7.—The house of commons was crowded with persons eager to see clause 5 of the home rule bill forced through the committee. Only occasional abolitionists offered resentment or bitterness to disturb the proceedings. Balfour, leader of the unionists, was in the middle of a sentence when the clock struck 10. He did not wait to finish it but resumed his seat amid deafening cheers from the opposition and cries of "shame," and "gag." The unionist amendment was lost and and clause 5, which pertains to Irish executive authority, was then passed by a vote of 324 to 259. Clause 6, which provides for an Irish parliament with a legislative council of forty-eight members, passed without debate.

The smallness of the majority and the preparations of the government to proceed caused intense excitement. Conservatives howled and the Irish party howled back, while the Liberals cheered with might and main. Eventually from sheer exhaustion the Unionists gave the chairman an opportunity to put the question of clause 7, which provides for constituting the Irish legislative assembly. It was carried. Clause 8, which contemplates cases of disagreement between the two houses of the Irish legislature was carried.

A page and a half of the bill was pushed through the committee this evening, almost as much as was disposed of in all the previous sittings.
PARIS, July 7.—E. J. Phelps, of counsel for the United States, in continuation of his closing address before the Behring sea tribunal of arbitration today, reviewed the evidence submitted to the tribunal to show the effects of pelagic sealing upon the herds. Phelps claimed that the evidence showed the catch of the pelagic hunters consisted entirely of female seals. Those caught in the Pacific ocean, he said, were mostly pregnant, while those caught in the Behring sea were chiefly nursing mothers, which were out at sea seeking food. The pups of those mothers died on the islands from starvation.

VALETA, Malta, July 7.—The British battle-ship Camperdown, which ran into and sunk the Victoria, was placed on the dock here to repair. As she came off the water it was seen that her stern had been broken off just under the torpedo tube about nine feet down, her main bent over toward the port side, and six plates, three on each side damaged.

SENTENCE OF DEATH.
SAN FRANCISCO, July 7.—In the United States district court Judge McKenna passed sentence of death on Henry St. Clair, the seaman who murdered Second Mate Fitzgerald of the bark Hesper, near Tahiti last winter. Friday, October 6 was set as the date of execution.

ANOTHER CYCLONE.
CEDAR RAPIDS, Ia., July 7.—A violent storm passed over Wright county last night. In Norway township a number of buildings were demolished. An old man named Lobson and a girl named Schmidt were killed. A number named seriously hurt.

TWO CYCLONES AT POMEROY.
FORT DODGE, Ia., July 7.—Two cyclones struck Pomeroi last evening, destroying residence portion and part of business houses. Thirty-two dead are taken out of the ruins. Fully 70 are injured. Wires are down and particulars hard to get.

WORSE AND WORSE.
SIOUX CITY, July 7.—A special train bearing doctors and helpers, left here this morning, for Pomeroi. A passenger in from there this morning, says 70 were killed, and nearly every house in town is destroyed.

PART OF THE KILLED.
DES MOINES, July 7.—Following is a partial list of killed at Pomeroi: Mrs. Marie Adams, Mrs. C. R. George, W. Arnold and wife, Mrs. Mike Quinlan and baby, J. P. Ludgren Miss Ollie Lundgren, Dr. White, Elias Rush-ton, Mrs. Tillie Johnston, Lena Klefer, Ollie Frost, Mrs. Gus Dahlgren, Hul-lett and wife, Netting and wife, Ben and Ezra Davis, Mrs. D. L. O'Brien and baby, J. M. O'Brien, Dillmuth, a boy named Mudge, B. T. Harlowe, A. Fouché.

VICTIMS MANGLED.
CHEROKEE, Ia., July 7.—Later reports of loss of life by yesterday's cyclone more than confirm first reports. Loss of life is appalling. Horrors of the situation are increased by terrible mutilation of victims. The body of a young lady was found but the head and one lower limb are missing. Force of wind was terrific. Big rocks were torn from the ground and hurled long distances. Pipe of a deep drive well which projected above the ground only four feet was drawn completely out. This could hardly be accomplished by human means.

The latest advices from Pomeroi say forty bodies are recovered so far, and the work not yet completed. Many of the injured are horribly mangled. An appeal is received here for nurses and food. A relief train is to leave for that point, carrying a number of prominent ladies, who have volunteered assistance. A supply of provisions is also sent.

AN UNHAPPY VALLEY.

LEMARS, Ia., July 7.—Advices from the storm stricken district east of here confirm the reports already sent to the Associated Press report from Fonda and elsewhere. At Pomeroi the bodies recovered up to 7 o'clock numbered 55, and over 100 are known to be injured. Coffins and help have been ordered from Cherokee and towns west. The storm started in the south part of Cherokee county and crossed the Onawa branch of the Illinois Central at Quimby, where several were injured and two or three killed. From Quimby it passed through the country region until it struck the main line, at Pomeroi. Crops and farmhouses are swept away along its course. The Sioux valley has been unfortunate, being swept nearly every year by flood, cyclone or hail storm. Last night's cyclone was the worst of the lot.

WAR FEELING IN SAMOA.

Native Chiefs Preparing for a Battle.

King Malleton Feels Confident of His Ability to Crush Out the Rebellion—The Country is Bankrupt.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 7.—The following was received from Aia, Samoa, under date of June 20:

The war dogs have not yet been loosed, though they are howling and dragging at their chains. King Malleton has informed the consuls of the three powers that he is confident of being able to effectually subdue the rebellion without much fighting, and a great council of war will be held by his party on June 24 to decide upon an immediate course of action. It is, therefore, as certain as anything can be in connection with Samoan warfare that something definite and decisive may be expected within a few days. This was said a month ago and turned out to be a false prophecy, but it seems utterly impossible now that actual war can be longer postponed. In the meantime it is freely stated that the rebel party has not been inactive, but has taken advantage of the circumstances which induced the king's procrastination to strengthen and improve its position. It is commonly rumored today that Mataafa has advanced in the direction of Mollanua, the king's headquarters, as far as Hanae, thus covering about half the distance between his former camp at Malleton and the seat of government. It is further stated that he is engaged in strongly fortifying the position he has now taken up, and that he will there confidently await the king's attack. The consuls are inclined to discredit these rumors. They are confident that, owing to the arrangements they have made, information of any such movements on the part of the rebel forces would have been speedily communicated to them, whereas they have received no intimation to that effect. There is still, however, a possibility that the rumors are not wholly unfounded. The natives in the district where it is expected the trouble will be have been actively engaged of late in removing their goods to places of safety.

Baron Von Pilsach has departed from Samoa, his resignation having been accepted by the powers and the king. He handed over the duties of his office to the consular board on June 3, and on the following Thursday left by the Monowai for Germany by way of New Zealand and Australia. On looking over the finances of the country in a deplorable condition; in fact, it was painfully apparent that drastic measures would be necessary to save Samoa from hopeless bankruptcy. They have been since vigorously at work, and the result of their labors will be set before the king in a letter he will receive from them two or three days hence.

WEDDING OF ROYALTY.

Prince George and Princess Mary of Teck United.

A MOST BRILLIANT CEREMONIAL.

The English Royal Family and Many Notables Present.

LONDON, July 7.—The occasion was made one of national rejoicing and a partial British holiday. Great crowds of people gathered many deep along the line of the route from Buckingham palace, upon Constitution hill, through Piccadilly, St. James street and Marlborough gate to the garden entrance to St. James' palace, situated at the north side of the Mall. The decorations along the line of the royal procession were profuse and beautiful. The roadway was kept open by household troops in glittering uniforms, by detachments drawn from the military depots, by the metropolitan volunteers and militia, by the Middlesex yeomanry and by police. The scene was full of life and movement, and the ceremony eclipsed in pomp and splendor any recent state ceremonial in connection with the British court. The royal party left Buckingham palace in four processions, the first conveying members of the household and distinguished guests, the next procession including the Duke of York and supporters, the Prince of Wales and the Duke of Edinburgh, while the bride came in the third procession accompanied by her father, the Duke of Teck, and her brother, Prince Adolphus of Teck. The last procession was that of the queen, who was accompanied by the Duchess of Teck, her younger sons and the Grand Duke of Hesse. They drove in state to the ceremonial. Each procession was accompanied by a Life Guard escort, and in addition to this the queen had an escort of Indian native and Australian Horse. Her majesty rode in the handsome glass coach used at the opening of parliament and on other special occasions. The body of the carriage, which is of Irish manufacture, having been built in Dublin, is painted a dark red color, and its gilt panels are adorned with the royal arms. The roof is surmounted by a crown and bordered with a wreath of gilt roses, thistles and shamrocks.

The cheering as the royal carriage drove forward was immense, and the members of the royal family and guests on alighting at St. James' palace walked to the state apartments and subsequently down the grand staircase and under the court colonnade to the seats reserved for them in the chapel. Her majesty alighted in the ambassador's court, under a specially erected canopy over the glass doors of the passage leading to the hall. Then she walked to the baptist at the north end of the edifice. The hall was beautifully adorned in palms and flowers from the royal conservatory and carpeted with crimson. Upon the same platform seats were provided for the Prince and Princess of Wales and the bride and bridegroom and other members. The diplomatic body, including the members of the United States embassy and the other invited guests, occupied special seats in the body of the chapel and in the royal and east galleries. Drawing room dresses were worn by the ladies. The gentlemen appeared in full levee dress.

THE MARRIAGE CEREMONY.

The marriage ceremony opened with a procession of clergy into the chapel. This consisted of the archbishop of Canterbury, bishop of London, the dean of the chapel royal, the subdean, the bishop of Rochester, the Hon. and Rev. E. Carr Glynn, vicar of Kensington; Canon Ferri, domestic chaplain to the Prince of Wales, and Canon Dalton, honorable chaplain to the Duke of York. Handel's march from "The Occasional Overture" was played by the organist as the procession came forward, while the archbishop and clergy were taking their places. The music of the march in "Scelopio" came from the organ, and immediately the front of the second procession, including the royal family and royal guards, came in sight, and the members of it were conducted to their seats as they entered. The archbishop of Canterbury, assisted by other clergy, performed the ceremony, the bride being given away by her father. The magnificent gilt sacramental plate, the central altar dish of which is said to have been manufactured in the reign of Charles II and valued at $50,000, was displayed on the altar, which was decorated with the choicest flowers. The dejeuner was served at Buckingham palace, the queen proposing the toast of the "Bride and Bridegroom," and Lord Stewart the toast of "The Queen." After receiving congratulations, the Duke and Duchess of York left Buckingham palace, driving through the Mall to the city, and thence proceeded by the Great Eastern railway from Liverpool street to Sandringham. The lord mayor and sheriff met the newly wedded pair at St. Paul's cathedral, and their progress through the lavishly decorated and crowded streets was a triumphant one.

Steamer Labeled.

PORTLAND, July 7.—United States District Attorney Murphy filed a libel in the United States district court issued a warrant of arrest which was served last evening. There are five counts in the indictment. Two refer to smuggling Chinese, two to smuggling opium and the other to forging certificates. Out of 144 Chinese passengers brought here this trip from Victoria, seventy have been examined and thirty rejected.

Vice President Stevenson.

CHICAGO, July 7.—Vice-President Stevenson and a party of personal friends will leave Chicago Monday night for the Pacific Coast and Puget sound country. They will visit Los Angeles, San Diego, San Francisco, Salem, Portland, Tacoma, Seattle, and other points of interest, and return via the Great Northern railroad. In an interview he expressed himself thus in regard to the Sherman silver law: "I will say that I am in favor of its immediate repeal, but the substitute has not been agreed upon. Regarding the so-called financial flurry, it is of no great importance, as I believe nine-tenths of the reported business and manufacturing failures were work concerns. I look for great results from the coming session of congress, and I believe some good and wholesome laws will be enacted."

Buying Silver.

WASHINGTON, July 7.—The treasury resumed purchases of silver bullion today, buying a hundred thousand ounces at 72 cents.
